

EVO DETROIT strives to strengthen its community based programs - Avalon Village, Building Better Men, Buckets of Rain, S.A.Y. Detroit Family Clinic and WNUC - by facilitating the sharing of ideas and resources between them.

Through its "Prescription for Vegetables" program, Buckets of Rain, an urban garden across from the S.A.Y. Clinic, provides free vegetables for clinic patients and residents of Avalon Village.

S.A.Y. Clinic provides free healthcare to women. D2N's board member and volunteer, Dr. Debbie Charfoos (pictured in the center), promotes the clinic during her WNUC healthcare-focused radio show.

The women of Avalon Village have access to the S.A.Y. Clinic and Buckets of Rain. Pictured here are two other Avalon Village programs: Hood and Music Camps.

Building Better Men (BBM) relocated to the S.A.Y. Detroit Play Center. The move has provided BBM with a strong infrastructure and has increased mentorship access for young men at S.A.Y.

In Nepal we're building programs that ensure high quality health care. Sanjeep Rai, a public health expert from Khotang supervises assessment of D2N-constructed Health Posts and Birthing Centers.

Our newly-constructed Health Post and Birthing Center in Sapteshwor.

Female Community Health Volunteers (FCHVs) provide local women their first-exposure to our health posts and birthing centers.

Sanjeep Rai on left, Raju Tuladhar, D2N's Nepal Director, on right.

Construction of our 4th Health Post and Birthing Center in Baspani. April 2019.

A delivery at Sapteshwor Health Post and Birthing Center.

